Grid Seating Plan Given

Athletic Association
Allots 7,114 Seats
To UK Students

The new seating arrangement in McLean stadium, furnishing 7,114 student seats for football games, provides more seats in proportion to the enrollment than is provided by any other university in the South-eastern Conference, Claude Sprowls, president of the Student Government Association, has announced.

Prepared by the Athletic Association, the seating arrangement allows for 314 more student seats than last year's capacity. Eighty-two percent of the student body attended last season's games. The present plan will accommodate more than that percentage based on an estimated enrollment of 7,000.

Wives To Sit In Section
Student veterans will be permitted to purchase tickets for their wives in the student sections.

The plan follows:
Section A, one of the four new sections of steel tier seats to be located west of the main student section and between the end zone seats and the concrete bleachers, will hold 1540 students.

Sections B, C, and D, (north side of the stadium) seating 4,800 exclusive of box seats, will be reserved entirely for students. (Last year 500 seats of Section C went to non-students.)

Seven-hundred fifty seats in the west end zone section will be reserved for those who arrive late.

Four Students Get Danforth Scholarships

Professor L. J. Horlacher, assistant dean of the College of Agriculture and Home Economics, announced this week that four students in the college have received scholarships which are awarded annually by the Danforth Foundation of St. Louis, Mo.

Recipients of the scholarships are: Frances Horlacher, Lexington junior in home economics; Russell Conrad, Burlington junior in agriculture; Eloise Ewbank, Warsaw freshman in home economics; and Walter Jewell, Buechel freshman in agriculture.

The juniors will spend two weeks in St. Louis at the Reardon Farm and Manufacturing Plant, where they will study nutrition and business methods. From there they will go to Camp Miniwanka at Shelby, Michigan, for two weeks of leadership training. Freshman scholarships provide for the latter two weeks of training.

These scholarships are made available to 39 agriculture and home economics colleges in the country. Agriculture students have represented the UK college every year since 1929, and students in home economics have been awarded scholarships annually since 1936.

Professor Horlacher also revealed that other scholarships will be awarded to freshmen and sophomores in September. Kroger Company of Cincinnati will provide two hundred dollars each for three freshmen entering in September, and the Sears Roebuck Agricultural Foundation will award 12 scholarships to freshmen and one to a sophomore.

Selection of applicants will be made by a committee in the college. Application forms are being sent this week to all county agents and vocational teachers.

Cooperstown Officials Plan To Establish Community Store

Officials of Cooperstown, University housing project for married student veterans and their families, plan to establish a community co-operative store in a quonset hut to be furnished by the University and located at some central site within the project boundaries. It was disclosed Tuesday.

Although the hut, one of eight such buildings being transferred to the University from the Veterans' hospital on the Leestown pike for use as storage space, has not arrived as yet, Cooperstown Mayor Robert J. Geeslin said he is appointing a committee of residents to work out plans for stocking the store, selecting a manager and determining other policies of operation.

Tentative plans call for each of the project's 324 families to put up $5 or $10, or some other approximate amount, to buy the initial stock for the store. Groceries will be bought for cash from wholesalers and sold for cash at just enough profit to pay expenses of operation, Geeslin said.

The store will be modeled to some extent after commissaries found on Army posts and chain store supermarkets with customers getting what they want on a self-service basis. It was explained. No date has been set for the formal opening of the store.

The winner will be awarded a trip to California as a guest of the magazine and will receive a complete college wardrobe created by leading California designers.

In addition, a group of runner-up prizes of complete wardrobes will be presented to those college girls whose entries are adjudged to be outstanding.

Details of the contest and application blanks may be obtained in the social director's office in the Union building.

UK Buys Surplus Machine Tools

The University was one of the seven Kentucky colleges which purchased surplus machine tools from the Louisville office of the War Assets Administration during March and April. The WAA has announced. The University bought a variety of items, that originally cost the government $13,000, for slightly more than $300.

Donovan Appointed To Navy Committee

University President H. L. Donovan has been appointed to a community committee to support "Operation Naval Reserve," which will be observed on a national scale the week of May 18-25. Fred B. Waech, active chairman of the group has announced.

"The principle tasks of the local committee organization will be to acquaint various groups and the public in general with the necessity for maintenance of a strong Naval Reserve as an instrument for world peace, and to inform prospective recruits of the many advantages offered them by the new civilian reserve," Waech said.

'Joan Of Lorraine' Cast Gives Vigorous Portrayal

Topping the current season at the Guignol Theater, Maxwell Anderson's play, "Joan of Lorraine," comes upon the stage of the University Training School each evening with all the vigor, reality, and informality of a rehearsal rather than a performance.

Produced and directed by Frank Fowler, this production raises another triumphant banner for the local theatrical group in its most trying year.

Presentation Changes Swiftly
A play within a play, this presentation changes swiftly and without effort from the tense moments of the inner play, which is fashioned to the life of Joan D'Arc, to some complicated situations in the outer play, which involves the temperamental

ROTC, Band Commended

The local Cadet Corps and the military band were compared as "highly favorable" with the other units in the Second Army, inspecting officers said Tuesday during the annual government inspection held on the campus.

The five regular Army officers who represented the War Department in the inspection were "very much pleased with the attitude of ROTC enrollees, the administration of units and the University in general," Col. G. T. MacKenzie, professor of military science and tactics, reported.

A parade view of the 562-man cadet corps and 70-piece marching band was held before the inspection party. Theoretical tests were conducted covering the work completed by the Air Corps, Signal Corps, Infantry and Band units of the ROTC.

Spring Fever Hits

When asked by a Kernel reporter for this week's news, Dr. W. S. Webb, head of the Department of Physics and Anthropology and Archeology, said, "Same old thing, when spring comes scholastic standings go down."

University Geography Department Named As Repository

The University Department of Geography has been named a repository for commercially-unavailable maps, indices, and other research material prepared by the Cartographic Department of the National Geographic Society in Washington, D. C., Prof. J. R. Schwendeman, head of the geography department has announced.

A complete set of maps and indices, one file on the Eastern Hemisphere and the other on the Western Hemisphere, already has been received, he said. Valued at approximately $10 a plate and of a type not published commercially since the war, the set includes 31 physical-political maps, ranging from "The World" to "The Reaches of New York City" and are approximately 30 x 36 inches.

Also in the collection were enlarged editions of four of the smaller maps which measure approximately 30 x 68 inches. They are "The Northern and Southern Hemisphere (Polar Projection)," "Bible Lands," "The United States," and "The World (Van Der Grinten's Projection)."

The maps and additional material to be sent the department by the society's research staff will be used to facilitate research among students and faculty and for library use, Dr. Schwendeman said.

Students Are Warned To Turn In Kyian Mailing Forms

Several hundred students may not receive their editions of the 1947 Kentuckyian if mailing slips are not turned in to the office of that publication early next week, Charles H. Harris, business manager, has warned.

Mailing address slips are available in the basement of McLean hall, and in the Kentuckyian office, which will receive those forms from 1 to 4 p.m., Monday through Thursday.

According to Harris, all copies of this year's edition will be mailed to subscribers because of the late date set for publication. It may be September before copies are mailed to the students, Harris said.

Traffic Light Plan Approved By SGA

Unanimous approval was given Monday night by the Student Government Association on a proposal to negotiate with the Lexington Police Department for the securing of a traffic light to be placed between the Administration building and the Scott street barracks. The motion was presented at the request of residents of the Scott Street Barracks.

Sprowls also presented a resolution to the Assembly endorsing the removal of a senior publication to be planned by the graduating seniors and supplemented by the Kernel staff. A committee appointed with Sprowls as chairman was designated as a liaison group with the objective to integrate plans for the project and to secure approval of the University faculty.

'Beer, Beer,' Quoth Robin

By Roscoe Biazingame

You can imagine the surprise of this person the other day when a robin came a dive-bomb act on my one and only hat with everything including himself.

Naturally, I am much perturbed by this event, especially in view of the fact that the aforementioned bird is large for his age, and also taking into consideration that I am not accustomed to birds so discourteous as to crash into my one and only hat.

An Abrupt Landing

But when I see the large knot on his head, my heart goes out in pity for the little character who is still quite unconscious from his abrupt landing.

His eyelids flutter, and as a large tear gathers on my long nose, I swear this robin says to me in a most unbirdlike fashion to force some brandy down his throat.

On this occasion, I am not carrying any brandy; but he agrees when I suggest that we go for a beer. As I am not one who indulges in beer, I order a box of aspirin which serves to ease the shock of meeting a bird which desires brandy.

Cat Trouble

After two bottles of beer, this robin becomes quite talkative, and starts telling me his troubles which are certainly not of a minor nature. It seems that his ever-loving mate is apprehended by a cat the preceding fall, and that he decides not to go to Florida for the winter. He doesn't feel too badly about this, however, because immediately after this tragedy, said cat is apprehended by a bull dog with a vile temper, and is very much damaged.

He says he then spends the winter in the Tower of Memorial hall where he amuses himself playing the chimes when no one is around. This, he says, occurs not infrequently, and is a great amount of fun.

When spring comes, he is in a very bad way. There is no ever-loving mate to lay eggs, and there is no one to build a nest. Finally, he lays aside the idea of eggs this year, and decides to build his own nest, a task which he knows very little about.

Breaking Up A Home

His first attempt at home building turns out very tragically as he builds said nest in a most unfavorable location. This particular location happens to be the shoulder of a University maintenance man who makes the mistake of moving away just as the project is almost complete.

Naturally, I am a little indignant at this remark; so I hastily change the subject by ordering him another bottle of beer which he consumes with great dexterity.

About this time it turns on me that perhaps this robin is not accustomed to drinking beer. I notice this when I observe that he has grown to approximately five times his original size, which event is quite alarming.

A Rowdy Companion

It also dawns on me that I am enjoying a very rare privilege which is namely that of conversing with a man with a bird that enjoys an occasional glass of beer. Besides that, the other patrons in the place are beginning to take notice of my companion who is becoming quite noisy.

Taking this into consideration, I decide that I should get his views on subjects more important than the housing shortage among robins.

No Necking?

I then ask him what he thinks of a rule against necking on the University campus now that the necking season is just ready for its formal opening. To this remark he immediately replies that he is glad that he is a robin—but adds that students should always uphold the morals of the University even if it is necessary for them to go completely outside the city limits to uphold them.

By this time, the last two bottles of beer are beginning to have a more definite effect, and this robin begins making few remarks about every good friend of mine, and I immediately threaten to place an additional knot on his little pointed head. To this remark, he replies that I should go ahead and try it if I consider myself capable.

Grounded By Booze

Realizing the damage to my reputation of being guilty of fighting with a robin in a common beer joint, I hasten to soothe his ruffled feelings, and propose that we go elsewhere.

He appears agreeable to this suggestion; but the weight of the beer has grounded him, and he is unable to move from the place where he is sitting. But after great persuasion, I get him to his feet and lead him toward the nearest exit.

The Spice Of Life

By Amy Price and Helen Dorr

Barrowfuls of dogwood bloom Nod from every florist's room. Gay as Christmaside cravats, Posies perch on gals' new hats. Cats of raffish back-yard aura Boldly ogle my Angora— Her with ribbons by the stack— Who definitely ogles back. Today a stranger dared to wink. And I—

Well, spring is here, I think!

It's a well known secret that about five Sig Eps run their own scandal sheet known as "the little black book." These five "gentlemen" are allergic to having over two dates with the same girl. Each date and her specifications are immediately entered. Tom Martin is the ringleader (or so he says) and he also declares that Dan Rawlings is really a gentleman because he refuses to write in the book.

Overheard: She's a sweet girl who likes to whisper sweet nothing doings in your ear.

Delts Jim Stiles and Hugh Moorhead are battling (in a brotherly sort of way) for dates with Toni Bartley (Alpha Xi).

After weeks of misunderstanding Talhu Fish (DDD) and Rodney Beck (KS) are trying it a second time. Here's wishing them luck.

Betty Leece (AGD) has been dating Pat Kelly (KS) and Bob Dean (DTD) but we hear her heart lies in a different channel, namely the "Delt's own" Bill McClain.

The line forms to the right for dates with Betty Sellers (KAT). Those already in the line are Jolly Rogers (KA), Dave Mooney (PDT), and Bill Brown (SAE). These boys sure do get around.

Phi Tau Bill Hicks' latest girl friend is Bobby Jean Perry. The most talked-of event of the week was the SAE formal and Cotton Wisner's date.

Charles Hatcher (Sig Ep) and Wilma "Butch" Minniard are together constantly these days. Lewis Sawin (KS) accompanied Mary Carolyn Carver home for the weekend.

Gossip is something that goes into one ear and comes out. By the way, we hope the column is taken in the same spirit in which it's written.

Marianna Young (AGD) and Crusher Hays (ATO) are renewing an old acquaintance.

The only events for Sunday are a couple of faculty teas and the ADP's Founders Day banquet. The banquet will be at the Idle Hour Country Club; the Zeta Tau Alpha faculty tea is from 3 to 5 p. m. at the chapter house; and the Deltas, with the assistance of the Delt Mother's Club, will give a faculty tea from 4 to 6 p. m. at their house.

Two fraternities are going to other universities this weekend to initiate new chapters into their national organizations. The Sigma Chi's will travel to the University of Chattanooga to attend installation ceremonies there. Kentucky Alpha chapter of Sigma Phi Epsilon will journey to Louisville to initiate Delta Sigma, oldest fraternity on the University of Louisville campus, as Kentucky Beta chapter. Jack McNeal Most Valuable

Jack McNeal, College of Commerce senior from Ashland, has been honored by designation as the "most valuable" member during the school year of Delta Epsilon chapter of Delta Tau Delta fraternity.

A former officer in the Army Air Forces, pilot of a C-47 in the Pacific theater during the war, McNeal was selected for the honor in voting by other Delta actives, and announcement of the fact was made at Delta Epsilon chapter held its annual Founders' Day banquet last Saturday night at the Lafayette hotel.

Louisville alumni of Delta Tau Delta many years ago presented to the local chapter a bronze plaque on which is inscribed each year the name of the member chosen as the one who has contributed the most to the Delta's success and standing on the campus.

McNeal, president of Delta Epsilon for a year before entering military service, returned to the University last fall and will be graduated in June. He has been the chapter's vice president and social chairman during the past year.

Also on the program at the Founders' Day banquet, observed the installation of Delta Epsilon chapter on the U.K. campus on May 10, 1947, was a tribute to the memory of the late Dean C. R. Melcher, dean of men and head of the German department for many years prior to his retirement in 1933, who was a member of Delta Tau Delta for 60 years. In his will Dean Melcher left his jeweled Delta badge to be worn by its presidents during their term in office.

Speakers at the banquet included High Shields of Indianapolis, executive vice president of the fraternity, and Col. Elbert DeCoursey of Fort Sam Houston, Texas, a charter member of Delta Epsilon chapter.

Robert M. Odear, Lexington attorney, served as toastmaster, and others on the program included President Joe Young, Everett Elsey, a past president, and James S. Shropshire, chapter adviser.

Alumni from out of town present for the occasion included Dr. Howard P. Fischbach, Cincinnati; Bert Stansbury, Louisville; Gene Combs, Hazard; James A. Hagler, Millersburg; William T. Bryan, Dayton, Ohio; Tom Bowling, Detroit; Jack Mylor, Louisville; T. A. that of Mary. William Hess was probably the outstanding comedian of the show. As a well meaning monarch, Hess and without a mind of his own, Hess is convincing as the Dauphin.

The roof of the theater nearly folds under the laughter of the audience at that moment when Kent Hollingsworth, as Jean D'Arc, leaps to a bench to demonstrate with the changing voice and the gesticulations of an adolescent the manner which he would express himself to the English and the Burgundians if he were in charge of the French armies.

Mill's Portrayal Outstanding One minor criticism of this particular performance is that Hollingsworth's squealing voice is just a trifle too high at times to be heard any distance from the stage.

Edmund Mill's portrayal of an archbishop is outstanding. All members of the cast are to be commended for their parts in this production. Also worthy of special mention are Douglas Hancock, who played the Bastard of Orleans, and James Sherburne, whose interpretation of the role of the Bishop of Beauvais was flawless.

Freshman Art Work Now On Display

The quantity and the quality of first year student art production are on display in the current exhibition of drawing, sculpture and design in the gallery of the Art department. Nearly a hundred student artists are represented in the selected display of over 300 finished works.

Professor Raymond Barnhart, under whose guidance the student artists created the pieces, stated that the variety of the work indicates the wide areas over which the imagination of students can range.

Lettering problems, layout, posters, drawings in ink, pencil, pen, and crayon, color design, paper sculpture, and experimental work with a variety of materials are all a part of the massed display. The exhibition will continue until the first summer term.

Cape Cod's now-famous cranberry industry dates from 1816, when one Henry Hall became the first successful cranberry grower.

Mission Director Visits Campus

Phillips P. Moulton, director of the University Christian Mission with offices in New York, was on the University campus yesterday afternoon and last night to formulate plans for the campus's observance of Religious Emphasis week next January.

Mr. Moulton met with various students and committee chairmen yesterday, and was the guest of the campus-wide committee for Religious Emphasis week at 5 p.m.

Halfback Ben Heininger, sophomore speedster, scored the one lone touchdown in the final intrasquad tilt played last Friday night. Heininger ran 82 yards on a punt return to give his White team a 7-0 win over the Blue eleven.

Whites Take Grid Tilt 7-0

By Tom Diskin

Last Friday night, some 6,000 spectators saw the slightly favored White team defeat the Blues, 7-0, in the second and final intrasquad football game which was played on Stoll field.

The lone score came in the third period when 180-pound Ben Heininger, sophomore halfback, grabbed one of Blanda's punts and raced 80 yards for the touchdown. Don (Dopey) Phelps added the extra point with a place kick through the uprights.

For the winning Whites, it was the backfield that gave them the slight edge over the Blue eleven. Jim Howe, Ben Heininger, Dopey Phelps, and Bill Moseley were frequently causing the opposition trouble when they carried the pigskin. On the White line, Hensley, Bentley and Preston played well.

On the Blue squad, Jim Parrott, Bill Boller, Dick Martin and Lee Truman sparked the backfield as George Blanda handled the signal-calling duties. Parrott was the leading ground-gainer through the husky White line. In the front lines, little Leo Yarnits, Matt Lair and Chick Seigel were hard to stop.

The 190-pound Blanda, a junior, looks to be the only experienced quarterback on the squad. Should something put Blanda on the sidelines, the Whites would be without a dependable signal-caller. This situation is probably the biggest problem that the Kentucky team will have to overcome before the grid season rolls around.

A total of $1,260.57 has been given by 18 fraternities to the Phi Kappa Tau fraternity to use in paying the medical bills of Jim Shackelford, Phi Tau, who was injured in an intramural boxing match, according to Roger Thornton, head of the Interfraternity council committee for the fund.

'Fair' Football Forecast For Forty-seven
Intramural Insurance Not New Plan

After watching Coach Bryant's squad perform in both intrasquad games, we're certain of one thing: come next fall, and that is that Kentucky will play ten football games. The Wildcats may not win them all and we don't believe there are many who expect the Kentuckians to go undefeated in their second "Bearyear."

If one was to use the two games as indication of what to expect this fall, then they would conclude that the veterans on the squad could work together and beat any freshman team they meet, and that against the kind of competition the Cats will be meeting they should be a fair match.

The line at this early stage appears strong with sufficient reserve strength to support the first string. However, football teams must be built in advance if they are going to be winning outfits. And when you consider that at least three top tackles, a couple of guards and ends and one center are playing their last season of college ball, then the line may be great this year, but it'll take a lot of freshmen to fill the vacancies for coming seasons.

As for the backfield there is plenty of running, passing, and kicking potential making it up. But there's always one, two or three good backs on the bench nursing injuries, and thus the striking power is always hampered. Coach Bryant seems to have adequate man power for the half back and full back spots. However, the quarterback position doesn't seem to be overloaded with experienced players.

With the T formation, the quarterback is unquestionably the key man as the ball passes through his position on almost every play. It takes a quick thinking, fast moving man who is adept at calling the right play at the right time to make the T click. All this plus game knowledge which comes only from experience.

Thus an injury or two in this key position could seriously cripple even a successful team. Therefore you can safely bet that if there is an outstanding quarterback lurking unnoticed in some nook or corner, that he'll be enrolled in school before the summer sessions begin.

However, all is not gloomy. Coach Ray Ellis of Georgia Tech, whom we don't play, was Coach Bryant's guest at last Friday's game. The two sat in the press box to the very end, commenting on every play and commenting on what each player did wrong.

After the game, in a brief chat we asked him what he thought of the squad. The small Yellow Jacket coach smiled and said, "They're okay, okay. It looks like K-Y all the way." When asked who he liked on the team, he immediately listed Lee Truman, Jim Parrott, and "Dopey" Phelps.

From the line which should be as good as any in the conference, Ellis named Jay Rhodemeyer and Leo Yarusis as tops on anybody's squad.

And while we can't agree with Coach Ellis that it'll be K-Y all the way, we will say that at the moment it looks as if the Wildcats will have a fair team next season, and 80% is usually considered fair.

Three weeks ago this column was asked by friends of the boxer injured in the intramural tournament, if there was something we could do about starting a drive to establish a fund of some sort to protect participants in the future. They were not asking for help in their own case, but were definitely interested in there being some sort of aid available in the event that another of these odd accidents should happen.

We agreed with them that something should be done for the future protection of contestants, and were ready to go to bat for this and also to see what could be done about the present case. It occurred to us that a small admission might be charged for the semi-finals and finals in the softball tournament with all proceeds going to help meet the tremendous hospital bills being incurred. Either this or some other way of obtaining funds to pay part of the bills, which the injured boy by no means should have to foot.

However, on discussing the situation with the Intramural Director the go ahead signal was not given, for the sake of the injured last's personal feelings, it was explained.

Five Men To Represent UK In Southeastern Track Meet

By Winfield Leathers

With an abbreviated squad of five cinder-burners and weight tossers, Coach Phil Hudson and his Kentucky track team left Lexington late last night for the Birmingham, Ala., Athletic club, where they will stay during their attempts to pick up points in the Southeastern Conference meet being held in that city this weekend.

In this 15th annual meet, Georgia Tech's Yellow Jackets, who won the cinder carnivals of '37, '44 and '45, are rated slight favorites over the harriers from LSU, who have won the meet 11 times in the previous 14 meets and finished second to Tech in the other three years.

Kentucky's fleet-footed and strong-legged men and their specialties are footballers Johnny McHarris, who has broadjumped his way over a span of 21 feet 8 1/2 inches, and Don "Dopey" Phelps, whose flying toes have brought him to the century tape in 9.7 seconds and the 220 yard in 22.2 seconds.

Other Wildcats with the needed lubricated ankles and kneecaps are Tony Dallas, high and low hurdler, who has never officially beaten the star and leader of the Kentucky parade, Jim Weber, in these events. Weber is also slated for arm duty in the discus throw and the shot put. His records for these are 127 feet 7 inches in the discus heave and 43 feet 10 inches in the shot put toss. His fastest time for the 120-

Softball Record

Darrell Carder, Phi Kappa Tau pitcher, has already amassed a record in the intramural softball tournament that will be hard to top and round-robin play isn't even over yet. The underarm flinger has hurled five straight shut outs, the last two being the no-hit type.

In the last two games, a 1-0 victory over Dorm II, and a 3-0 win over Triangles, 31 batsmen have faced the mound king and only one has advanced as far as first. He received the trip free, courtesy a walk.

The Phi Kaus have racked up 34 runs to their opponents none in the five tilts, while Carder has given up only six hits, these to the SAE's, ATO's, and LXA's.

We were told that already the fraternities were working on a plan to help in this case, and that the possibility of group insurance to cover the intramural players—similar to that taken out on the football and basketball teams—was being investigated.

Up to press time the Intramural Director was out of town on business and thus unavailable for a statement. It was learned, however, that the committee headed by Professor C. C. Carpenter of the Commerce College, was still awaiting further information about the insurance.

Thus neither the idea of some future protection of intramural players against injury nor the possibility of obtaining group insurance to cover the sports is just new material for talk. Instead it is a definite attempt to take another step in the right direction, and has been under consideration for about a month. Here's hoping for speedy success.

yard high barriers is 15.5 seconds and for the 220-yard lower leaps is 26.2 seconds.

Fifth Kentucky sprinter is quarter-miler George Kirchner, who before the current season had never tested his leg strength and running time in the pointed spikes. His time has improved from the first meet and in his last two outings, against Tennessee and Berea, he churned his way around the 440-yard UK oval in 51.8 seconds.

Cat Nine Plays Vandy Twin-Bill Tomorrow

Coach Harry Lancaster and his baseball crew will attempt to climb out of the SEC cellar when they tangle with the Vanderbilt Commodores Saturday afternoon, in a double-header to be played at Legion Park.

If the UK Cats win both games of the twin-bill, they could move ahead of Florida and Vandy in the SEC baseball standings. At present, Kentucky has won one and lost three against conference opponents; the record for the season thus far is two wins against eight losses.

The diamond athletes elected John Stough, shortstop, as captain for the team. Outfield Tom Tabb and Cliff Barker are the team's leading hitters—both have batting averages around the 450 mark. Two weeks ago against Vandy, Barker collected four hits in eight attempts in the two game series played in Nashville.

The team was given a much-needed shot-in-the-arm this week when several footballers joined the Lancastermen. Of the half-dozen new men, five of them are pitchers. They are Wallace Jones, Jim Babb, Dick Hensley, Roy Ford and Don Ridge. Alan Hamilton, outfielder, will join the squad if his injured knee permits.

Harry Lancaster said that Cliff Barker would hurl the first game Saturday and Wah Wah Jones in the nightcap. The probable line-ups for the Saturday tilts are:

KENTUCKY — Rollins, CF; Tabb, LF; Beard, 2B; Barker, P; Stough, SS; Thomas, C; Smith, RF; A. Cummins, 3B; Daniels, 1B.

VANDERBILT — May, SS; Lindsay, CF; Lawrence, 2B; Stephens, P; Crouch, 1B; Holt, LF; Regen, C; J. P. Moore, RF; Williamson, 3B.

Vols Take Two Games

Down in Knoxville Friday and Saturday, Kentucky was defeated by the strong UT Volunteers, losing the first game 12-2 and the second 3-2. The two victories for Tennessee boosted their winning streak to eight straight and the Vols have now won nine in the last 11 tries. For UK, it was losses number six and seven as against two wins. In the Friday contest, the Cats' pitching led to the downfall. Chambers and Allen were very wild and UT pushed over six runs in the first two innings and went on to score six more while McDonald, Vol hurler, was setting the UK swingers down with only two runs and seven hits.

On Saturday, Kentucky came back and gave the Orangemen a tough game, losing 3-2. Cliff Barker pitched.

ed good ball, but Bob Steward of UT was better as he allowed the Wildcats only six hits, two of them by outfielder Ken Rollins.

Bill Chambers was the losing moundsman in the initial game, giving him a record of one win and two losses; for Cliff Barker it was his third defeat, all by narrow margins.

The Sig Eps' pitcher, Gene McMurray, claims the second best pitching record for the present intramural softball tournament. His boasts are based on two successive no-hit shut outs during which he has struck out 26 batters and walked only two.

Stopping the KA's and the Delta Chis in order without a hit, the right hander has burned them across the plate to 32 men, and only four have had to be thrown out at first.

Strong Notre Dame Netters Squelch Wildcats 9-0 There

By Kent Hollingsworth

The UK tennis team went all the way to South Bend, Indiana, last Saturday to be swamped by a powerful Notre Dame sextet, 9 to 0.

The Wildcat netmen eased their rackets out of their presses and swung them in the air for a little while, got a good look at the marvelous Notre Dame courts and tennis players, and came home. Not one Kentuckian sneaked by with more than one game, all going down by scores of 6-0 or 6-1.

Danny Dickerson, Kentucky's number one man, unsuspectingly stepped on the same court with a boy named Every, the National Indoor Champion of 1941. Tommy Asbury, number two man on the Kentucky team, played the brother of the Irish star, who could play the number one match with no noticeable change in effectiveness. Juan Balzola, UK's number five, was pitted against the boy that played the number one match last year.

After a good long practice session Monday to prepare the boys for the University of Cincinnati match scheduled for Tuesday, it rained all day and forced the cancellation of what was expected to be an evenly contested match.
